Need, Intended Audience and Scope of Practice

This symposium is designed for electrophysiologists, electrophysiology fellows-in training, cardiologists and others interested in cardiac arrhythmias. It is our intent to present the latest results of basic and clinical research and information about ablation, imaging technologies and device therapies.

NEW THIS YEAR!

A complementary, interactive ECG interpretation session on Thursday night, December 5. Also featured are latest guidelines, didactic lectures and debates by national and international experts in the field. This year's event offers expanded case presentation sessions and interactive discussion, as well as the latest guidelines, didactic lectures and debate by national and international experts in the field.

Poster Presentation

Submit early as space is limited. Submission guidelines are available on request. See Contacts & General Information page for relevant contact.

Learning Objectives

Following the symposium, the participants will be able to:

- Describe and discuss the mechanisms of AF, VT, and VF
- Critically analyze current and future therapies, including ablation for AF, VT and VF
- Discuss the value of new technologies in arrhythmia management

Americans with Disabilities Act

Aurora Health Care subscribes to the articles of Title III of the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990. Should you or anyone accompanying you require special assistance, please notify us in advance so we can make sure you are accommodated.

Accreditation

Aurora Health Care is accredited by the Wisconsin Medical Society to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

Aurora Health Care designates this Live educational activity for a maximum of 16.25 AMA PRA Category 1 credit(s)[™].
